

MED NEWS HEADLINES FROM THE MEDITERRANEAN

Politics

Energy Is Changing Israel's Foreign Policy - Opinion (The Jerusalem Post)

The Abraham Accords between Israel and several Arab states, including the oil-rich countries, further illustrate Israel's energy centric-foreign policy. Read more here.

Turkish Minister Says Greek Politicians Have "Inferiority" Complex (The National Herald)

Egyptian political forces preparing themselves for the national dialogue proposed by President Abdel-Fattah Al-Sisi on 26 April reject any participation by Islamists, particularly the outlawed Muslim Brotherhood. Read more here.

No Dialogue With The Muslim Brotherhood: Egyptian Political Forces (Ahram Online)

Croatia's prime minister Saturday urged closer cooperation within NATO after a military drone, which he said was launched from Ukraine, crashed in Zagreb. Read more here.

Lebanon Energy Minister Says 'Politics' Behind Jordan, Syria Electricity Deal Delay (The New Arab)

Lebanon's Caretaker Energy Minister Walid Fayad said the US had demanded to 'see the financing terms from the World Bank' to ensure the electricity deal 'is not sanctionable'. Read more here.

Environment

Israel Rejects Lebanon's Claim On Mediterranean Gas Field (Energy World)

"The Karish field is in Israel's territorial waters even according to a map submitted by Lebanon to the United Nations in 2011," Shaked Eliyahu, the spokeswoman for... Read more here.

For A Better World: Turkey's 1st Upcycling Festival Lifts Hopes (Dail Sabah)

The fight for sustainability and environmental friendliness for a better future does not stop at recycling. In fact, one of the countless other ways of helping nature... Read more here.

Tunisia To Start Food And Energy Subsidy Cuts Next Year (The New Arab)

Tunisia will begin rolling back subsidies on energy and food from 2023 as part of an unpopular reform package to satisfy international lenders... Read more here.

IMO body grants green light to the proposal on curbing emissions from ships in the Mediterranean (Hellenic Shipping News)

The 78th session of the Marine Environment Protection Committee (MEPC 78) of the International Maritime Organization (IMO), which convened on 6-10 June 2022...Read more here.

Culture & Archeology

Rusty Saber, Possibly Wielded By Medieval Turkish Pirates, Unearthed In Greece (Live Science)

A rusty medieval saber, or one-edged sword, unearthed at a fortified Christian monastery in northern Greece might be a deadly weapon that either raiding Turkish pirates...Read more here.

Mediterranean Sea-Slug Found Off Ulster Coast As Climate Concerns Highlighted On World Oceans Day (Belfast Live)

A sea-slug that's native to much warmer waters has been found off the Ulster coast in a possible first of its kind sighting. Read more here.

Under the Mediterranean Sun (The Epoch Times)

When visiting Via Coquina in Palm Beach, Fla., we're immediately transported to the shores of the Mediterranean... Read more here.

Caricature of the Week

Exploitation
You can find the original link here.

End of Med News